Nohkalikai Falls near Cherapunjee

CHERAPUNJEE

Nohkalikai Falls is one of the tallest waterfalls in India at 1100 feet (335 metres) high. The waterfall is located near Cherapunjee, one of the wettest places on earth. The falls are fed by the rainwater collected on the summit of comparatively small plateau and decrease in power during the dry season in December - February.

The lights of Shillong at night

SHILLONG

Shillong is the capital of Meghalaya, one of the smallest states in India and is situated at an average altitude of 4,908 ft (1,496 m) above sea level, with the highest point being "lum shyllong" at 1965 m. Shillong has beautiful lakes and waterfalls, and is set in pine forests and green mountains. It is a popular hill-station which the British used to call the Scotland of the East.

Cruise boat on the Brahmaputra

BRAHMAPUTRA RIVER

The Brahmaputra enters India in the state of Arunachal Pradesh, where it is called Siang. It makes a very rapid descent from its original height in Tibet, and finally appears in the plains, where it is called Dihang. It flows for about 35 kilometres (22 miles) and is joined by the Dibang River and the Lohit River at the head of the Assam Valley. Below the Lohit the river is called Brahmaputra, enters the state of Assam and becomes very wide—as wide as 10 kilometres (6.2 miles) in parts of Assam.
